

HOW WOMEN AVOID OPERATIONS

By Taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Cleveland, Ohio.—"My left side pained me so for several years that I expected to have to undergo an operation, but the first bottle I took of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound relieved me of the pains in my side and I continued its use until I became regular and free from pains. I had asked several doctors if there was anything I could take to help me and they said there was nothing that they knew of. I am thankful for such a good medicine and will always give it the highest praise."—Mrs. C. H. GURFITH, 1508 Constant St., Cleveland, Ohio.

Hanover, Pa.—"I suffered from female trouble and the pains were so bad at times that I could not sit down. The doctor advised a severe operation but my husband got me Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and I experienced great relief in a short time. Now I feel like a new person and can do a hard day's work and not mind it. What joy and happiness it is to be well once more. I am always ready and willing to speak a good word for the Compound."—Mrs. ADA WILT, 303 Walnut St., Hanover, Pa.

If there are any complications you do not understand write to Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co. (confidential) Lynn, Mass. Your letter will be opened, read and answered by a woman and held in strict confidence.

"Cured"

Mrs. Jay McGee, of Stephenville, Texas, writes: "For nine (9) years, I suffered with womanly trouble. I had terrible headaches, and pains in my back, etc. It seemed as if I would die, I suffered so. At last, I decided to try Cardui, the woman's tonic, and it helped me right away. The full treatment not only helped me, but it cured me."

MANAGEMENT OF SOW DURING FARROWING

Champion Poland China Sow.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

The period of gestation for sows is approximately 112 days or eight days less than four months from the date of breeding. It may vary from this a few days one way or the other. This date should be known to avoid mistakes that may result in the loss of pigs.

As the time for farrowing approaches the sow should be watched carefully, in order that assistance may be given if necessary. The feed at this time should be sloppy and limited in amount. Nothing but lukewarm water should be given the sow during 24 hours previous to farrowing. If she has already farrowed a litter and has been properly fed and cared for during pregnancy, little difficulty may be expected. With young sows, particularly those bred at an immature age, there is considerable risk at this time, not only to the pigs but to the sow herself.

There is a difference of opinion as to the amount of bedding which should be given to the sow at this time. An active sow in comparatively light condition can be trusted with a liberal amount of bedding, but sows which are in high condition or which are at all clumsy, had better be given only a moderate amount of straw.

The farrowing pen should be dry and well ventilated, but free from drafts. Provide the pen with a guard rail made of two by eight planks with their edges against the sides of the pen about ten inches above the bed. These prevent the sow from lying against the partition, and lessen the danger of injury to the pigs. The little fellows will soon learn to creep under the guard rail when the sow lies down.

The management of the sow during farrowing depends largely on the animal and on the weather conditions. Assistance should be at hand if needed but the sow need not be helped if she is getting along nicely. When farrowing occurs during warm weather the pigs are less likely to become chilled and will generally find their way to the teats unaided. During extremely cold weather the pigs will the sow, and there is often a lot adjoining a barn that is sunny and sheltered from the cold winds where the sow and pigs may be turned for exercise. Do not allow the pigs to run out during a cold rain.

Production of Beef Cattle Profitable.
Do you regard the production of beef cattle as profitable in your country?

This question was asked last year of each county reporter of the bureau of crop estimates of the United States department of agriculture. Answers were received from 1,474 counties. Of these 1,232, or 83.6 per cent, reported in the affirmative; this is, that the production of beef cattle is profitable. Moreover, these affirmative replies covered nearly every section of the United States. In some of the New England states, however, it was regarded as unprofitable, for in the six states from Maine to Connecticut, inclusive, only 45 per cent reported it profitable.

In the group New York, New Jersey, and Pennsylvania, 62 per cent found it profitable. In the South Atlantic states, Delaware to Florida, the percentage is still higher, 84 per cent. In the North Central states east of the Mississippi river, Ohio to Wisconsin, the percentage is higher—89 per cent. The same percentage—89—is reported for the South Central states, Kentucky to Arkansas, being nearly the same in all the states. In the far western states, Montana to the coast, the opinion was nearly unanimous—91 per cent—that the production of beef is profitable.

It may be observed that going from east to west the percentage of those reporting that beef production is profitable increases. This is shown more readily by noting the percentages of a line of states from east to west, as follows: Massachusetts 0 (i. e., 0 reported unprofitable, none profitable), New York 52 per cent, Pennsylvania 74 per cent, Ohio 76 per cent, Illinois 73 per cent, Iowa 88 per cent, Nebraska 86 per cent, Colorado 100 per cent (29 counties all report production profitable), Utah 92 per cent, Nevada 100 per cent, California 77 per cent. It would therefore seem be in danger of being chilled unless the house is heated. To avoid this place a few heated bricks in the bottom of a basket or small box, covering them with chaff or straw, and put a cloth over the top to keep in the heat; unless the sow objects too seriously the pigs may be rubbed dry with a soft cloth and placed in the receptacle as fast as they arrive. They will not suffer if they do not suck for a few minutes after farrowing. After farrowing is over the pigs should be placed with the sow, care being taken that each one gets to a teat. When the afterbirth is passed it should be removed from the pen at once and burned or buried. There is good reason to believe that eating of the afterbirth is often the beginning of the habit of eating the pigs.

Usually the first 24 hours after farrowing, the sow should have no food, but should be given a liberal drink of warm water. If, however, she shows signs of hunger a thin slop of bran and middlings may be given. The feeding for the first three or four days should be light and the time consumed in getting the sow on full feed should be from a week to ten days, depending on the size and thrift of the litter.

After the sow has farrowed it is best for her to be in the open air. Of course, if the pigs are farrowed during the winter months care will be needed, and it may be necessary to let the pigs reach the age of two weeks before turning them out. They can, however, get considerable exercise in the piggery or in the lot with that, although the opinion is general among farmers that the production of beef is profitable, relatively it is more so in the West than in the East.

PREVENT WASTE OF MANURE

Little Thought Necessary to Determine Value of Dairy Herd From Fertilizing Standpoint.

In experiments conducted at the Louisiana station to determine the amount of manure and urine produced by the dairy herd of 20 cows in one year, it was found to be 175 tons of manure and 70 tons of urine. The average amount of manure produced by one cow in a year was 7,520 pounds, a little less than nine tons, and the average amount of urine produced by one cow in a year was 6,935 pounds, or a little less than three and a half tons. It takes little thought to see the value of a cow from the fertilizing standpoint, or to see the profit in preventing unnecessary waste of manure.

Bees Travel Far.

Investigation proves that bees will go from two to seven miles in search of nectar, but not if there is plenty of honey-yielding plants closer home. Colonies should be scattered throughout the orchard at blooming time. One colony for each five acres is probably sufficient, and after blooming time they can be moved to a central location out of the way of passing teams and conveniently located for future manipulation.

BEHIND the humor in this drawing we can read a little MORAL. Many folks are as SOFT as the snow man when the SUN of PROSPERITY beams down on them. They hold up a thin umbrella of GOOD INTENTIONS and cry: "See; we are playing safe. We're not spending more than we make." But the cloud SUDDENLY hides the sun. They are left a shapeless, melted mass. Then they are SORRY they didn't contract a steady, thorough BANKING HABIT.

LEADER OF THE PEOPLE.

"Realizing the necessity of having a standard-bearer of the Democratic party whose record is irreproachable and who is recognized by the citizenship of the State as a man thoroughly equipped to handle the great office of Governor for the benefit of the people, rather than for the benefit of a few politicians, the Democrats of Kentucky are recognizing in Henry M. Bosworth, of Fayette county, the man that can carry the party to victory, and who can fill the exalted position of Governor with honor and dignity to the great State of Kentucky, and his candidacy for the Democratic nomination for Governor is meeting with universal approval.

"Mr. Bosworth, who came into prominence by his fearless performance of duty as Sheriff of Fayette county, when he went in to a railway coach amid armed soldiers, who were backed by the then Governor of Kentucky, and arrested Caleb Powers, and Capt. Davis for their complicity in the assassination of Governor Goebel, is one of Kentucky's most esteemed citizens and popular officials. His personality is so genuine and amiable, and his abilities and character and public services so universally known that he is easily one of the most beloved State officials Kentucky has ever had."—Carlisle County News.

Tell me, ye winged wings that around my pathway roar, do ye not know some quite spot where wives clean house no more; some lone, sequestered dale, some island, ocean-girt, where life is not one ceaseless war with cobwebs and with dirt; where only nature's carpet spreads beneath their tired feet, and wretched men are never compelled its emerald folds to beat?

ALLEGED OUTRAGE.

Mrs. Lucy Cothran who lives between Hornbeak and the Lake, was here Monday looking to the investigation of the outrage she alleges recently perpetrated on her. She states that three masked men came to her home about midnight, tied her little 13 year old boy in the kitchen, then attacked, cursed, struck and tied her on her back in bed, lashing feet and hands to the four corners of the bed. They then heated an iron and seared her abdomen, also inflicting other unmentionable atrocities that a Comanche Indian would scorn to do. The people of that locality ought to sound this matter to the remotest bottom. She was reared near Chicago and moved here with her first husband 17 years ago. Her husband, George Cothran, left her a few months ago. A very threatening and vulgar note was recently left on her front gallery. She is about forty years of age, vigorous and well built.—Union City News-Banner.
